

NOTICE OF PRIVACY PRACTICES

YOUR RIGHTS

You have certain rights related to your health information. This Notice of Privacy Practices explains how your health information may be used and disclosed, and how you can access your health information.

I. Purpose and Applicability

This Privacy Notice describes the privacy practices of Aware Recovery Clinical Associates, P.A., doing business as ANew Recovery, and its affiliated entities, business associates, agents, and employees (collectively referred to as "ANew"), and is inclusive of all of ANew service offerings, individually and collectively.

II. Privacy and Confidentiality Obligations of ANew

ANew is required by law to maintain the privacy and confidentiality of information about your health, health care, and payment for services related to your health (referred to in this notice as "protected health information" or "information" or "PHI") and to provide you with this Privacy Notice of ANew's legal obligations and privacy practices with respect to your protected health information. When ANew uses or discloses this information, ANew is required to do so in accordance with the terms of this notice (or other notice in effect at the time of the use or disclosure).

PHI involving substance use disorder services

If you are applying for or receiving services related to substance use disorder, including diagnosis, treatment, or referral, your health information is protected by 42 CFR part 2. As such, ANew may not acknowledge to a person outside of ANew that you participate in or applied for an ANew program except under certain circumstances described in this notice.

PHI involving other health services, including substance use disorder services

The Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act ("HIPAA") and related privacy regulations (45 CFR Parts 160 and 164) also protect your health information, regardless of whether you are applying for or receiving services for substance use disorder. Generally, if you are not applying for or receiving services for substance use disorder, the way ANew may use and disclose information differs slightly, as described in this notice.

III. Uses and Disclosures with Authorization (all PHI)

Generally, ANew may use or disclose your protected health information when you authorize us to do so in writing on a form that specifically meets the requirements of applicable state and federal laws and regulations.

a. Exceptions. There are some exceptions and special rules that allow for the use and disclosure of your protected health information without your consent (see Section IV and V).

b. Right to Revoke. You may revoke your authorization except to the extent that we have already taken action upon the authorization. If you are currently receiving care and wish to revoke your authorization, contact your Care Team. After you are discharged, you will need to contact the Health Information Management Department.

c. Court Orders and Subpoenas. Please be aware of the fact that a court with appropriate jurisdiction or other authorized third party could request or compel you to sign an authorization.

d. No Sale of PHI. ANew does not sell client protected health information.

IV. Uses and Disclosures without Authorization (all PHI)

ANew may use and disclose your information under the circumstances listed below, even when you have not given your written authorization.

a. Treatment. ANew may use or disclose your protected health information for treatment purposes. Treatment includes diagnosis, treatment and other services, including discharge planning. For example, your Care Team may disclose your health information to each other to coordinate treatment services, including alternative services or other health-related benefits and services that are necessary or may be of interest to you.

b. Health Care Operations. ANew may use or disclose your protected health information for health care operations purposes, which include internal administration, planning, and various activities that improve the quality and effectiveness of care. For example, we may use information about your care to evaluate the quality and competence of our staff. ANew may disclose information to qualified personnel for outcome evaluation, management audits, financial audits, or program evaluation; however, such personnel may not identify, directly or indirectly, any individual client in any report of such audit or evaluation, or otherwise disclose client identities in any manner. ANew may disclose your information as needed within ANew to resolve any complaints or issues that arise regarding your care. ANew may also disclose your protected health information to an agent or agency that provides services to ANew under a qualified service organization agreement and/or business associate agreement, in which the service provider agrees to abide by applicable federal law and related regulations (42 CFR Part 2 and HIPAA). Health care operations may also include use of your protected health information for programs offered by ANew, such as sending you invitations to alumni events and workshops sponsored by ANew. This list of examples is for illustration only and is not an exclusive list of all the potential uses and disclosures that may be made for health care operations.

c. Uses and Disclosures without Authorization (aside from treatment and health care operations)

- Appointment Reminders. ANew may contact you to send you reminder notices of future appointments for your treatment.
- Medical Emergencies. ANew may disclose your protected health information to medical personnel to the extent necessary to meet a bona fide medical emergency (as defined by 42 CFR Part 2); this information might include HIV status, if applicable.
- Minors. ANew may disclose to a parent or guardian or other person authorized under state law to act on behalf of a minor, including facts about a minor which are relevant to reducing a threat to the life or physical well-being of the minor or any other individual, if the Agency Director or other clinical leader determines that the minor applicant lacks capacity to make a rational decision and the minor's situation poses a substantial threat to the life or physical well-being of the minor or any other individual which may be reduced by communicating relevant facts to such person.
- Incompetent and Deceased Clients. In the case of clients who have been deemed incompetent by a court of law or are deceased, authorization of a personal representative, guardian or other person authorized by applicable state law may be given in accordance with 42 CFR Part 2.
- Decedents. ANew may disclose protected health information to a coroner, medical examiner or other authorized person under applicable law who require the collection of death or other vital statistics, or to permit inquiry into the cause of death.
- Judicial and Administrative Proceedings. ANew may disclose your protected health information in response to a court order that meets the requirements of federal regulations, 42 CFR Part 2 concerning Confidentiality of Substance Use Disorder Patient Records. Note also that if your records are not actually "patient records" within the meaning of 42 CFR Part 2, your records may not be subject to the protections of 42 CFR Part 2.
- Commission of a Crime on Premises or Against ANew Personnel. ANew may disclose your protected health information to law enforcement officials if you commit a crime on the premises or against program personnel or threaten to commit such a crime.
- Child Abuse. ANew may disclose your protected health information for the purpose of reporting child abuse and neglect to public health authorities or other government authorities authorized by law to receive such reports.

- Duty to Warn. If ANew learns that a client has made a specific threat of serious physical harm to another specific person or the public, and disclosure is otherwise required under statute and/or common law, ANew will carefully consider appropriate options that would permit disclosure.
- Audit and Evaluation Activities. ANew may disclose protected health information to persons or entities who perform audit or evaluation activities for certain health oversight agencies, such as state licensure or certification agencies, the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations, which oversees the health care system and ensures compliance with regulations and standards, or those providing financial assistance to ANew.
- Research. ANew may use or disclose protected health information without your consent or authorization if our research privacy board approves a waiver of authorization for disclosure.
- Marketing Communications. ANew may contact you with information about ANew health-related services and products that may be beneficial to you. Such communications are a part of Health care operations, and examples of these communications are invitations to continuing care programs, alumni events and catalogs of recovery and self-help materials such as books, videotapes and other items. If you do not want to receive marketing communications, send an email to Communications@recoverwithanew.com

V. Uses and Disclosures without Authorization (Non-substance use disorder diagnosis, treatment, or referral PHI)

If you are not applying for or receiving services for substance use disorder, the rules governing the use and disclosure of protected health information are different from and less restrictive than the rules governing information involving substance use disorder diagnosis, treatment and referral. The next section lists the additional allowable disclosures that may be made without your authorization if you are not applying for or receiving services for substance use disorder. (This list does NOT apply to those persons applying for or receiving services for substance use disorder):

- a. Allowable disclosure when required by law. ANew may disclose your protected health information as required by state or federal law.
- b. Allowable disclosure for health and safety. ANew may disclose your protected health information to avert or lessen a serious threat of harm to you, to others, or to the public.
- c. Expanded allowable abuse reporting/investigation of abuse. ANew may disclose protected health information to a person legally authorized to investigate a report of abuse or neglect.
- d. Expanded allowable public health and health oversight activities. ANew may disclose your protected health information for public health purposes and health oversight purposes including licensing, auditing or accrediting agencies authorized or allowed by law to collect such information, including, for example, when ANew is required to collect, report or disclose information about disease, injury, vital statistics for public health purposes or other information for investigation, audit or other health oversight purposes.

e. Expanded allowable disclosure for law enforcement activities. ANew may disclose protected health information to law enforcement officials in response to a valid court order or warrant or as otherwise required or permitted by law.

f. Expanded allowable disclosure to legally authorized representatives. ANew may disclose your health information to a person appointed by a court to represent or administer your interests.

g. Expanded allowable disclosure in judicial and administrative proceedings. ANew may disclose your health information pursuant to a valid court or administrative order, or in some cases, in response to a valid subpoena or discovery request.

h. Allowable disclosure to the Secretary of Health and Human Services. ANew must disclose your health information to the United States Department of Health and Human Services when requested in order to enforce the privacy laws.

VI. Your Individual Rights

a. Right to Receive Confidential Communications. ANew will most often communicate with you using the phone number, mailing, or email address you provide. You may request, and ANew may accommodate, reasonable requests for you to receive your protected health information by alternative methods of communication or at alternative addresses.

b. Right to Request Restrictions. At your request, ANew will not disclose health information to your health plan if the disclosure is for payment of a health care item or service for which you have paid ANew out of pocket in full. You may request additional restrictions on our use and disclosure of protected health information for treatment, payment and health care operations. While ANew will consider requests for additional restrictions carefully, ANew is not required to agree to a requested restriction. If you wish to request additional restrictions and you are currently receiving services, please contact your Care Team. Once you are no longer receiving services, contact the Health Information Management Department in writing. ANew will send you a written response.

c. Right to Inspect and Copy your Health Information. You may request access to your medical record maintained by ANew to inspect and request copies of the records. Under limited circumstances, ANew may deny you access to a portion of your records. If you desire access to your records and you are currently receiving services, please ask your Care Team for the records. Once you are no longer receiving services, contact the Health Information Management Department.

d. Right to Amend your Records. You have the right to request that ANew amend protected health information maintained in your clinical file or billing records. If you desire to amend your records and you are currently receiving services, please contact your Care Team. Once you are no longer receiving services, contact the Health Information Management Department. Under certain circumstances, ANew has the right to deny your request to amend your records and will notify you of this denial as provided in the HIPAA regulations. If your requested amendment to your records is accepted, a copy of your amendment will become a permanent part of the medical record. When ANew "amends" a record, ANew may append information to the original record, as opposed to physically removing or changing the original record. If your requested amendment is denied, you will be informed of your right to have a brief statement of disagreement placed in your medical record.

e. Right to Receive an Accounting of Disclosures. Upon request, you may obtain a list of individuals or entities ANew has disclose your protected health information to, other than instances in which when you gave written authorization OR those related to your treatment and payment for services, or our health care operations. The accounting will apply only to covered disclosures prior to the date of your request provided such period does not exceed six years and does not apply to disclosures that occurred prior to April 14, 2003. If you request an accounting more than once during a twelve (12) month period, there will be a charge. You will be told the cost prior to the request being filled.

f. Right to Receive Notification of Breach. You will be notified in the event ANew discovers that breach has occurred to the extent that your protected health information may have been compromised. A risk analysis will be conducted to determine the probability that protected health information has been compromised. Notification will be made no later than 60 days after the discovery of the breach, unless it is determined by a law enforcement agency that the notification should be delayed.

g. Right to Receive a Paper Copy of this Notice. Upon request, you may obtain a paper copy of this notice.

h. Right to File a Complaint. If you desire additional information about your privacy and confidentiality rights, you may contact the Privacy Office at 203-599-0260. You may call this number if you are concerned that ANew has violated your privacy rights, if you disagree with a decision that ANew made about access to your protected health information, or if you wish to complain about our breach notification process.

You may also file a written complaint with the Secretary of the United States Department of Health and Human Services. Upon request, ANew will provide you with the correct address. ANew will not retaliate against you if you file a complaint. Violation of federal law and regulations on Confidentiality of Substance Use Disorder Patient Records is a crime and suspected violations of 42 CFR Part 2 may be reported to the United States Attorney in the district where the violation occurs. Upon request, we will provide you with the appropriate agency contact information.

VII. Effective Date and Duration of this Notice

- a. Effective Date. This notice is effective May 2, 2024.
- b. Right to Change Notice Terms. ANew may change the terms of this notice at any time. If ANew changes this notice, ANew may make the new notice terms effective to all protected health information that ANew maintains, including any information created or received prior to issuing the new notice. If ANew changes this notice, ANew will post the new notice in public access areas at our service sites and on our website at www.recoverwithanew.com. You may also obtain any new notice by contacting the Privacy Office.
